EDWARD BROWN DEAD, WAS 100 YEARS OF AGE

Pioneer Resident of Bellefonte Passes Away at Baltimore.

INTERMENT MADE HERE

For Many Years Deceased was Actively Engaged in Business in Bellefonte—Pallbearers Were Old-Time Friends—Survived by Son.

On Thursday Edward Brown, Sr., who for seventy-five years had been a resident of Bellefonte, died at the home of his son Edward Jr., in Baltimore, Md. His death was due to the wearing out of the system. According to the statement made by his son on Monday the deceased would have rounded out one hundred years had he lived until that day He was a man of remarkable vitality, as it was only a few years ago that he was compelled to give up business. About two years ago he left Bellefonte for Baltimore, with his son and made that place his home to the time of his death.

The deceased was born in Ireland, and when quite young left his native land and came to America. After roaming about for sometime he finally landed in Bellefonte. As the old saying goes "He was jack of all trades." He did anything to make a living. Years ago he did business on what was known as Strychnine corner, now Aiken's corner. He afterward was in the meat, green grocery and fish business. He also was in the furniture business. He saved money and kept purchasing property until he finally owned the Brant House, the store buildings opposite the Brant House, and a number of dwellings on South Allegheny and East Bishop Streets. Financial reverses, however, came in his declining years.

He was a typical Irishman, having the good will of the people of Bellefonte. He loved his snuff and just before he left for Baltimore, Md., a representative of "The Republican" asked him how long he used snuff. His reply was "only about 80 years." For years he was a member of the Catholic church, and was loval to that faith. His wife died a number of years ago. His only surviving child is Edward Brown, Jr., with whom he made his home.

The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Monday, and taken from the train to the Catholic cemetery for interment. The pall bearers were J. Mitchell Cunningham, James Noonan, Philip Beezer and Lewis Doll.

Fire Near State College.

The fine large brick house on the Mrs. Knoche's farm, two miles South-west of State College, was burned to the ground on Sunday night, between 9 and 9.30 o'clock. It was occupied by Mrs. Knoche and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Sheets; who formerly resided in Bellefonte, Mr. Sheets running a butcher shop on High Street, in the room now occupied by D. I. Willard.

One of the family went out and discovered that the roof on the house was all ablaze. There was no time to waste, so the members of the family began to remove the household goods. They saved about everything on the first floor and a few things on the second floor. Everything else was destroyed. The conflagration was the result of a defective flue. The loss will reach several thousand dollars, which is partially covered by insurance.

This week Mrs. Knoche and her parents moved to another farm owned by Mrs. Knoche, near Loveville.

Married Thursday Evening.

On Thursday Michael Poorman, of Snow Shoe, and Miss Rosie Heaton came to Bellefonte, and after securing a marriage license went to the United Brethren parsonage where they were married by Rev. C. W. Winey. The pretty wedding service was performed at 6 o'clock in the evening, and proved a very pleasing affair. They are both well and favorably known in their respective communities, and their friends wish for them much happiness. They will make their home in Snow Shoe.

Huntingdon May Get Penitentiary.

Huntingdon county's chance for the new penitentiary is growing. The bill has passed through the legislature on part of its trip and according to the way it now reads, Mr. Dunn says it will go on one of the state forest reserves when taken away from Pittsburg. As the committee who investigated this move report Huntingdon county state forest reserve as the best in many ways for the institution, it looks quite favorable.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 30TH. IS NEW PRIMARY DATE

Bill Pending in Legislature, at Harrisburg, so Provides.

CANDIDATES REST UP

Change in Election Law Applies to Primaries for this Year—Many Centre County Aspirants to Stop Canvassing Until August.

Saturday, September 30, is the date for holding the next primaries, according to an amendment to the primary election bill, now before the Legislature, at Harrisburg. Should the bill be passed in this shape, which now seems probable, the time for holding the primaries will be advanced to within thirty-seven days of the date of the November election, which will be on November 7. Under the present primary law the several nominations have been made on June 3, except in presidential years, when the primaries are held at an earlier date to make possible the selection of delegates to the national conventions.

It is understood that the changing of the law to provide for late primaries will apply to the primaries this year. Anticipating that the primaries would be held on June 3, as usual, virtually all of the candidates for offices in Centre County have been engaged for several months in canvassing the several borougns and townships. It is expected that a number of the candidates will stop active canvassing until a month or two before the new date for making nominations.

Married in Chicago.

A little romance led to the marriage on Saturday, last, at Chicago, Ill., of Harry Showers, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Showers, of Bellefonte, and Miss Margaret S. Mulfinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mulfinger, of Pleasant Gap. The couple were engaged to be united in marriage in Bellefonte but the scarcity of work here made it necessary for him to seek employment elsewhere. Through the efforts of James Corl, formerly of Bellefonte, he secured a good position with the Acme Supply Co., of Chicago, of which Harry Schreyer, a former resident of Bellefonte, is manager.

Not wishing to take the matrimonial step blindly the prospective groom left sometime ago for the "Windy City," where he sized up the situation and then sent for the young lady who was to be his life partner. On Friday afternoon at 1.25 o'clock, Miss Mulfinger bid adieu to friends in Bellefonte and started on her journey to the west. She arrived at her destination at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning and was met at the depot by her betrothed. It did not take them long in securing a minister, who performed the ceremony that made the happy couple one. They are both well known in Bellefonte and their friends here wish for them much happiness through life. Living in a hustling city like Chicago will be a new experience to them, but it is a place that offers special opportunities to young men of energy and ability. And it may be they will be so successful that some day Harry and his wife will return east, to see their friends, in their own flying machine. There are other Bellefonters who went to Chicago who are now "way up in G" and are riding around in automobiles and who some day may be flying through the air.

State Road Train.

On Wednesday afternoon the "Good Roads" train, under the direction of the Pennsylvania State College, the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., and the United States and Pennsylvania Highway Departments, arrived in Bellefonte and was taken to State College with Conductor Ross Parker's train.

Prof. Jackson, of State College, who has had general supervision of this train during its travel through Pennsylvania for the last three months, announced that it will be on the track, near the engineering building, at State College, on Saturday, next, and also Monday, at which time the farmers and others of that part of the county may see the exhibitions. It will be open for inspection on both days, from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

On Monday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock there will be a "Good Roads" lecture in the auditorium, at which State Highway Commissioner Hunter, of Harrisburg, and other prominent officials will be present. This will be the last opportunity that the people of Centre County will have to see this special exhibition of methods for good road building, which has been arranged at great expense.

Events Recalled By Quaint Old Papers

There is probably no section of Centre County more interesting, both from a commercial sense and the picturesque scenery of the mountains, than Snow Shoe township. For many years a large part of the business of this section has originated there or been handled by those having extensive interests in that township. Lumber and coal have been the chief industries of that busy community and now the manufacture of brick is to be added.

Picking up a copy of the old "Democratic Whig," published in 1850, we recently came across an article, written by an unknown correspondent, telling of his first visit to Snow Shoe township. The impressions he formed and his description of what he saw there will be found to be interesting to our readers, especially to those of the older families and also the present-day residents of Snow Shoe and surrounding country. We quote the article in question, as follows:

"We last week paid our first visit, and a very agreeable visit it was, to Snow Shoe township, which promises soon to rank high in the scale of importance among her sister townships in Centre County. The lands, covered with lofty pines and oaks, are among the most desirable in the State for lumbering purposes, and several sawmills have already been erected upon the streams which furnish water power. An excellent sawmill, the property of Messrs. James Gilliland & Co., on the Moshannon Creek, is probably the best establishment of the kind in this section of the country, and they have recently added a grist mill of two run of burrs, which is one of the most complete establishments of the kind we have seen.

"Messrs. Hay Brothers & Co., of this borough, have erected near the above mills an extensive tannery, now ready to receive its stock, which is the most convenient in all its arrangements that we have seen anywhere. It is arranged so as to require the least amount of labor—the grinding of bark, and distributing it to the proper vats, pumping and breaking of hides all being done by water power; and it is furnished with overhead water for all neeessary purposes.

"The abundance of bark in the immediate vicinity of the establishment and its consequent cheapness more than compensates for additional expense of hauling incurred by the location.

"About three miles from the above Messrs. Stewart & Miller are engaged in manufacturing lumber by steam power, with a circular saw. Their engine is about fifteen horse power, and when we saw it was working at about ten horse power. It took off two boards from a sixteen foot log in one minute, and is capable of cutting from four to five thousand feet of boards, with ease, in the course of an ordinary working day. The boards are much smoother than those manufactured with the ordinary saw and are free from stump-shot. The machinery of this mill is patented, of simple construction, and run by strap gearing. This mill may easily be removed to another location at little expense. We have no doubt of the success of the enterprise.

"The above we hope are but the forerunners of other enterprises to be undertaken in this region, and which will serve to open out the soil to cultivation and furnish a market for the produce, the land being of a quality well suited to wheat, clover, etc., and a large portion of it susceptible of yielding a rich reward to the cultivator. A good turnpike runs through the township, over which is yearly transported a very large amount of the celebrated bituminous coal which derives its name from this township, and than which there is none superior in the State. At the present time the population is rapidly increasing, and in many places farms are being opened out which give evidence of abundant reward to the husbandman: Such is Snow Shoe, holding out greater inducements than in a majority of instances, we have reason to believe, are met with by the emigrant to the far west."

MARY A. LAIRD DIES

For Years Was Prominent Public School Teacher at Mifflintown.

Miss Mary A. Laird, well known in Bellefonte and for years a teacher in the public schools at Mifflintown, Juniata County, died suddenly on Tuesday of last week. Funeral services were held on Friday, interment being made at Mifflintown. The children of the schools attended the funeral in a body.

In her youth Miss Laird was a resident of Bellefonte, being one of the children of the well known family of that name. She later removed to Mifflintown and there engaged in the noble work of an instructor in the public schools. As a teacher she was remarkably successful and her death is regarded as a great loss to the schools of Juniata County.

Miss Laird was a daughter of Wilson Laird and was one of a family of ten children. Her father was a man held in high esteem and throughout his life was active in the work of the Presbyterian church. His wife was Mary Jane Armstrong, who died a number of years ago. The following children are living: Robert A. Laird, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Catherine Gross, Bellefonte; Mrs. Clement Leach, Academia, and Miss Margaret, Mifflintown.

Testifying to the beautiful part Miss Laird played in the life of Mifflintown is the following tribute, adopted in her memory by the School Board of that place:

"On Tuesday morning last there passed out of this world into the joys of Eternity one of the dearest and most useful lives that ever came into our town in the person of Miss Mary A. Laird. For eighteen years she taught in the first or Primary Room in our public schools with a motherly love, patience, skill and devotion unparalleled in the history of our community. Men and women from twenty-five years and down to boys and girls of six are to-day mourning her death, and thanking God for her useful unselfish life. She started them at that tender age when they are so easily moulded and when a boy or girl in the upper rooms became rebellious she could most always truthfully say, "He did not begin in my room." Her kindly care and constant admonition was such as to gain the filial love, respect, and obedience of all her pupils, and that respect and obedience to those in authority continued with them as they went onward in life. No useful person is ever left out of things. To be appreciated and welcomed all one has to do is to keep on steadily being useful, reliable, willing and kind, and all these attributes Miss Mary possessed to a remarkable degree; so that no one ever could disturb her place in the heart's affections of the good fathers and mothers of Mifflintown.

"In her daily walk and conversation she most beautifully exemplified her great faith in the Savior she loved; who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not; for of such is the kingdom of God." Never again shall that face and voice, that form and spirit pass between the gates of birth and death. Her life was her own and it is ever here."

TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

Prominent Presbyterians Make Important Visit to State College.

As the result of a visit to State College, on Thursday of last week, by a delegation of prominent Presbyterians, it is regarded as probable that the near future will witness the erection of a Presbyterian church at that place. The proposed cost is $55,000, of which amount $30,000 is to be raised by the Board of Education of the Presbyterian church in the United States, and $25,000 by citizens of State College and surrounding communities. The Board of Education is to also raise an endowment fund for the church of $25,000.

The delegation to visit State College comprised a committee representing the Board of Education of the Presbyterian church and were the following: Joseph Wilson Cochrane, D. D., L. L. D., of Philadelphia, secretary of the Board of Education; Rev. Dr. Henry Collin Minton, of Trenton, N. J., president of the National Reform Association, who recently returned from a trip around the world and who plans attending the Second World's Christian Citizenship Conference, to be held next year on the Pacific coast; S. Spencer Chapman, of Philadelphia, counsel for the Board of Education; Rev. Dr. Edward Yates Hill, field Secretary and pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in Philadelphia, and Clement H. Congdon, also of that city.

While at State College the visiting delegation were guests of President Sparks at a luncheon given in their honor. Several hours were spent at Bellefonte before the committee departed for Philadelphia. While here several of the visitors were entertained at dinner by General and Mrs. James A. Beaver.

PHILA. DETECTIVE HERE ON DOROTHY ARNOLD "TIP"

Writer of Mysterious Letters Offered Information for $5000.

BIBLE HIS AUTHORITY

Author of Letters Was a Hard Working Resident of Bellefonte—His Imagination Excited by Over-Study of Religious Matters.

The presence in Bellefonte, on Sunday, last, of Detective Theodore Wood, of the Philadelphia Detective Bureau, with what he thought might be a clue to the whereabouts of Dorothy Arnold, the missing New York heiress, created quite a little stir for the time being, although in the end it proved to be a wild goose chase. Detective Wood had in his possession a letter written in Bellefonte, postmarked here and addressed to the father of Miss Arnold in New York. The writer of the letter said that he knew the whereabouts of the young girl, who has been searched for by the police all over the country, and that he wanted to know if the information would be worth $5,000. The Philadelphia Detective Bureau doubted that the letter would lead to anything of an important nature, and at the same time believed that it demanded investigation.

When Detective Wood showed the letter to Chief of Police Dukeman the latter was at once impressed with the fact that the handwriting closely resembled that of another mysterious letter, mailed some time ago from Bellefonte and explaining to the Philadelphia Police Department that the writer could give some information in locating valuable Egyptian articles stolen from the museum at the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia. That letter had been sent to Chief Dukeman by the Philadelphia police, but he was unable to locate the writer. When the two letters were compared it was seen that they had been written by the same hand.

In a short time Detective Wood and Chief Dukeman found the writer of the two letters. He proved to be a resident of Bellefonte, a hard working man whose imagination had been excited by over-study of the Bible.

"Where did you get the information regarding Dorothy Arnold?" asked Detective Wood of the man.

"In the Bible," calmly replied the man, and when asked in what part of the Bible, he added:

"The Book of Luke tells all about it."

The man gave similar replies in explaining his authority for writing that he knew the whereabouts of the articles stolen from the museum.

Satisfied that the man's imagniation had prompted the letters and that he in reality knew nothing about Dorothy Arnold or the museum robbery, Dectective Wood returned to Philadelphia on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Albert Bierly Dead,

On Monday morning, at 8.30 o'clock, Mrs. Albert N. Bierly, of Milesburg, died in the Bellefonte hospital following an operation. She had been ill since February 22. The deceased was bette known in Bellefonte as Miss Rose Levy, who was a graduate of the Bellefonte High School and a young lady of rare ability as a student. She afterward taught school and several years ago became the wife of Albert N. Beirly, a progressive young business man of Milesburg. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Levy, of Milesburg, and was born in that place on January 18, 1874, making her age 37 years, 2 months and 9 days. She was a model young lady, loved and honored by all who came in contact with her. She was a member of the Methodist church and took a deep interest in all its services. Her great desire and aim in life was to be instrumental in leading others into God's path. Her christian character made her life beautiful and attractive, and her home a place where her friends delighted to go. She will be greatly missed, both in the home and in the church. It is to be regretted that just in the bloom of young womanhood she should be called hence, but she is now reaping the reward of a pure, upright life. She is survived by a husband and four children as follows: Ruth, Sarah, Jerry and Anna. They are all quite young. She is also mourned by the following brothers and sister: William, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Frank E., of Duluth, Minn.; Mrs. Bertha Licht and James E. Levy, of South Dakota, and Melville of California. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made at Milesburg.

PROTEST BY CITIZENS STOPS BRIDGE REPAIRS

Trouble Over Plan of Remodeling Structure Near Bush House.

FLOOD RISK TOO GREAT

Property Owners Feared Style of Structure Would Cause Water to Back up and Cause Damage—Bridge Co. Preparing New Plans.

Work on repairs to the bridge over Spring Creek, near the Bush House, in Bellefonte, was brought to a sudden stop on Tuesday. Threats to ask for an injunction by property owners who feared that the style of bridge construction would aggravate flood conditions, prompted the order to stop all work for the present. Representatives of the York Bridge Company, which has the contract for the repairs, were hastily summoned. A meeting was held, attended by property owners, the County Commissioners, representatives of Bellefonte borough and the bridge company. An amicable plan of procedure was soon agreed to and no injunction was issued. As the matter now stands, the bridge company will present two new estimates covering two new styles of construction to overcome the difficulty. One will be to eliminate under-truss work and support the cross girders by means of a three foot pier to be erected in the centre of the stream. The other proposed plan it to build an entirely new bridge, with cross girders and no under-truss or overhead-truss work.

Opposition to the style of construction, which included under-truss work, developed when nearby property owners observed how far down the trusses would extend. They voiced the fear that in time of floods the trusses would collect floating rubbish, logs, etc. and cause the water to overflow onto the land lying between the "Democratic Watchman" office and the Pennsylvania Railroad station. Finally an injunction to halt the work was threatened and this led to the calling of a meeting of all directly interested to discuss the matter. Representatives of the bridge company expressed the belief that no other plan of engineering could be devised and at the same time utilize the greater part of the old structure. The situation was deemed so serious as to necessitate stopping all work for the present and the preparation of new plans.

The contract for the repairs now halted called for a cost not to exceed $4500, of which amount the county was to pay two-thirds and Bellefonte borough one-third. County Commissioner Woodring, at the meeting of property owners, declared that it had been represented to and so understood by the County Commissioners when the contract was signed, that the under-trusses were not to extend more than eight inches below the present girders. He said that he and his colleagues were opposed to any plan of bridge that would endanger property loss as a result of damming up the creek in time of flood.

Womanly Wisdom.

To fit a large cork to a small bottle, cut two wedge-shaped bits from the narrow end of the cork.

Wash bread boards and mixing bowls, or anything in which flour is used, in clear, cold water, using a small scrubbing-brush.

Yellow turnips are greatly improved when served mashed, by mixing with them a small quantity of Irish potato. A very little sugar, unless the turnips are unusually sweet, is a pleasing addition.

A wholesome breakfast dish may be made from wheat fresh from the granary: Soak it over night and cook it all day on the back of the range. This makes a food unequalled as to nutriment, and a great favorite with all who have been served with it. A bowl of this wheat, served with rich milk, makes a good breakfast for a growing child.

Potato soup: Boil a quart of potatoes and an onion until thoroughly cooked. Pour off the water. Add a piece of butter the size of an egg, and beat the whole well with a fork or wooden spoon. Heat a quart of milk and pour over this mixture. Salt and pepper to taste. Keep it hot on back of stove until served, but do not allow it to boil after the milk has been added.

The right way to poach eggs: Have a saucepan of water boiling hot, but not actually bubbling. Break the eggs, one at a time, into a saucer and slide them into place in the water. Draw the pan aside where they can not boil, and baste the water over them with a spoon till they are covered with a thin veil of white. Have ready slices of bread toasted, buttered and cut in pieces the size of the eggs and arranged on a hot platter. As each egg is lifted out on a skimmer, trim off the ragged edges and slide it on the toast.

Sponge cake made in this way will keep fresh and moist longer than the old-fashioned kind: To seven eggs take half a pound of flour and three-quarters of a pound of sugar and the juice and grated rind of a lemon. Pour over the sugar a half-cupful of boiling water and let it boil. Beat whites and yolks of eggs well together, and when sugar is boiled to a clear syrup, pour it over them, beating the whole until it is thick and light. Stir in the flour lightly and add the lemon last of all. Bake in a slow oven. If properly made it will be wonderfully light and delicate.—Farm Journal.

Bear Traps.

Both houses of the Pennsylvania legislature have passed the bill prohibiting the use of traps for capturing bears in this state. This bill was introduced in the house by Representative Rider and Senator Sones saw that it received fair treatment in the senate. There is little doubt that the governor will sign the measure, which would carry into execution the wishes of every humane hunter in the state.

Not wholly for the purpose of protecting bears from annihilation was this bill prepared and submitted to the legislature. It was because the hunters felt that something should be done to prevent the suffering of bears which are caught in steel traps that many hunters desired to have the old law permitting the trapping of bears repealed. Those hunters who are familiar with the manner in which bears are tortured when they are caught in a steel trap will rejoice to know that this method of taking members of the bruin family will most probably be abandoned in the future.

Annual Moving Day.

On Saturday a large number of the residents of Bellefonte will pack up their goods and chattels and hie themselves to a new domicile where they will try to remain contented for another year.

April 1, by custom, has become the annual scene of many movings and it is commonly known here as "moving day." With many people in Bellefonte such movings are chronic and they find it hard to stay in one house longer than a year. Of course there are many exceptions and the good housewife dreads the cares and worries of a moving. A number of people have not waited for the accustomed day and draymen have been kept busy all week hauling all sorts of household goods.

The draymen state that they are going to be busier than ever this year and that a great number of citizens here are going to take part in the flitting.

Remembered the Widow.

The Juniata shopmen last week sent $902.50 to Mrs. D. E. Bickel, of Altoona, the money having been collected among all departments and men of the shops, from the master mechanic to the apprentice boys. Mr. Bickel, an employe of the erecting shop, some weeks ago was struck by a flue which was being carried by a foreigner through the shops and which caught on a machine, whirling around and striking Mr. Bickel on the head. The injury resulted in death. The erecting shop first started the collection and the other shops joined this week the handsome sum of $902.50 being realized.

School Directors' Terms Extended.

In an opinion given to the Department of Public Instruction, Deputy Attorney General Hargest holds that the terms of school directors, which have hitherto expired in June will be extended by the act recently approved until January.

Play Ball.

An effort is now being made to revive the Tri-County Base Ball League. In an article in the Lock Haven Express written by a "Base ball dreamer" he says: "That in order to start the ball rolling for a new league the newspapers of Williamsport, Lock Haven, Renovo and Bellefonte ought to bring the matter before the public. Then a meeting should be called to talk the matter over. If the talk proves to be favorable, each place should send several sports (not gamblers) to Lock Haven, where the league could be formed. Lock Haven is an equal distance from Williamsport, Renovo and Bellefonte, therefore I think it the best place to form a new and good managed Tri-County league.

We could try it as a four club league for the first year and add two more teams the next season if the experiment proves to be all I dream it will if common sense is used in conducting the league and the teams.

O, for a Tri-County league composed of Lock Haven, Williamsport, Bellefonte and Renovo! O, for some one to make the first move to get it in shape!

We also remember how interested Bellefonte was when that place received a taste of league base ball in the late Tri-County league. I suppose Bellefonte would be willing to join a new Tri-County league, knowing that all teams will get a square deal financially and otherwise."

Bellefonte can produce the goods if it gets a genuine attack of base ball fever, and we trust that such an attack will become cronic. What is needed more in Bellefonte along all lines of business and sports is the spirit of "'76." If we don't size up the situation in this way we will soon drift into an indifference that will be extremely pitiful. Let everybody chip in and we will have a good base ball club which will defeat anything that comes down the pike.

Flames Destroy Large Plant.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the plant of William H. Mann & Sons, ax and edge tool manufacturers, at Yeagertown, near Lewistown, at 7 o'clock Friday morning; loss $200,000, partly covered by insurance.

The flames originated in the tempering department at an hour when all the employes of the plant were at work. This department abounds in turpentine and oils of a combustible nature, but was so well protected by modern devices that it was thought impossible that fire could get among them. Every effort to stay the flames was made by the local fire company of Yeagertown, as well as one organized among the employes, but the nature of the material on fire made it impossible.

The Manns entered the ax and tool business in the vicinity of Yeagertown more than seventy-five years ago, when they carried the steel used by them from the wharf of the old Pennsylvania canal in control, sold their interest, including the right of their celebrated brands, to the American Ax & Tool Company, and was made treasurer of the company. The plant was immediately closed, the machinery dismantled and broken up to be sold to the junk dealers.

Ten years later, in 1900, the present plant was built and put in operation as an independent plant. Their finished capacity was 2,800 axes every twelve hours, and their history one of prosperity. Mr. Mann said he was unable to state what would be done as to rebuilding.

House on Fire.

The dwelling in Beech Creek township, Clinton County, owned by G. M. Johnson and tenanted by Lear Miller came near being destroyed by fire Friday morning. The flue burned out and sparks set fire to the shingle roof. The occupants of the house knew nothing of the blaze, but Mrs. Johnson luckily cast a glance towards the Miller home and her attention was further attracted by the peculiar smoky condition. Quickly notifying Mr. Johnson, who was nearby, he hastened down the hill to the house and succeeded in putting the fire out before it got beyond control. As it was, two holes were burned through the roof and in one place the roofing lath were burned entirely off. It was a narrow escape from destruction of the Miller home.—Lock Haven Express.

DuBois Postal Savings Bank.

According to announcement, made at Washington, D. C., last week, the recently established postal savings bank at DuBois ranks eighth in the list of postal saving banks in the United States. Although the system was put into operation but two months ago, the DuBois postal savings bank shows a total of deposits in that time of $5,109, or an average balance for each depositor of $27.47. Leadville, Colorado, leads the list with total deposits of $21,253.

Beware of Toothpicks.

Don't chew toothpicks. A young man addicted to the custom was taken to the Chambersburg hospital for appendicitis and was operated upon and in the appendix was found part of a wooden toothpick, which undoubtedly set up the inflammation.

Not the Way in Bellefonte.

The New York police have notified all the theatres that they must not permit persons to stand during the performances. It has not been found necessary to take such action regarding the churches of Bellefonte.

An Awful Calamity.

One hundred and fifty persons—nine-tenths of them girls—were crushed to death in fire-driven leaps to the pavement, smothered by smoke or shriveled to a crisp Saturday afternoon in the worst blaze New York has known since the steamship General Slocum was burned, off North Brothers' Island, in 1904.

Nearly all of the victims were employed by the Triangle Shirtwaist Company, on the eighth, ninth and tenth floors, of a 10-story loft building, at No. 23 Washington Place, on the western fringe of the downtown wholesale clothing, fur and millinery district.

The partners of the firm, Isaac Harris and Max Blanck, escaped unscathed from the office on the tenth floor, carrying with them over an adjoining roof Blanck's two young daughters and a governess.

There was not a single fire-escape on the outside of the building, and as the blaze originated on the eighth floor, the use of ladders was cut off from the eighth, ninth and tenth floors, where most of the girl victims were driven and firemen, in a frenzy, were compelled to stand and see girls drop and break to pieces on the sidewalk at their very feet.

Big Coal Order Booked.

The Philipsburg Journal says that the several coal operations at and near Madera, over which, H. B. Swoope has charge and in which he and his father, Roland D. Swoops, Esq., of Curwensville, are also largely interested financially, will have a busy season, Mr. Swoope having just secured an entirely new contract of 100,000 tons for the coming year. With other contracts that are a regular thing with Mr. Swoope's operations, it can readily be seen that a prosperous summer is assured the hustling town of Madera.

Driver Falls Into 500 Eggs.

Hoover went to Cold Spring Saturday morning to collect eggs for sale that days. While he had his horse stopped in front of one of the farms the animal became frightened and made a bolt, throwing Hoover into several baskets of eggs and then dropping him out of the wagon to the ground.

Mrs. Elizabeth Merryman.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Frantz, of Bellwood, Mrs. Elizabeth Merryman died on Sunday morning at 4.15. Mrs. Merryman was aged 75 years and her death was due to the diseases incident to old age. For many years her home had been at Mt. Pleasant, Centre county, but for several years she had resided with her daughter, Mrs. Frantz. Her remains were taken on the early train on Wednesday morning to Mt. Pleasant, where interment was made.

Judge Hart May Not Retire.

An effort is being made in Williamsport to induce Judge Hart to accept the nomination for mayor of that city. Judge Hart is just closing a term of ten years presiding over the courts of the county. His successor will be nominated at the coming primaries. He may be a candidate to succeed himself.

Booze in Creek; Fish Drunk.

Anglers in Fishing Creek, near Bloomsburg, say that since the fire that destroyed and liberated 16,400 barrels at the McHenry distillery, in Benton, the drainage from that region has made the fish in the stream drunk. Old anglers declare they'll wait until the fish sober up before they'll attempt fishing again.

A youngster who drank some Fishing Creek water, about a dozen miles below the scene of the fire, remarked to his mother that the water tasted like some burned whiskey his mother once gave him for a cold.

Roofing Guarantees.

When a maker guarantees his roofing, it merely means that he puts his claims for it in writing, and if there is any dispute afterwards, there are thousands of ways in which the maker can evade responsibility if he chooses.

The makers of Congo Roofing, however, have devised an interesting plan which gives the buyer absolute protection. With each roll of roofing is furnished a Surety Bond issued by the National Surety Company of New York, guaranteeing the faithful performance of the guaratee by the manufacturers. This gives to any possible complainant a Court of Appeals to which he can go, over the head of the manufacturer. In fact, this guaratee bond so pledges that if the manufacturers of Congo Roofing should go bankrupt or close out their business, the Surety Company would still continue to guarantee the reliability and satisfaction of Congo Roofing. The guarantee on the two or three ply is for 10 years.

Mrs. Catherine Hoffman.

After an illness covering a period of several years, and being confined to her bed most of the time during the past year, death removed another aged resident of Philipsburg in the person of Mrs. Catherine Hoffman, widow of Peter Hoffman, deceased, who passed away Wednesday morning, of last week, at 3 o'clock at the home of her son, John B. Hoffman, Esq. Her death was the result of complications due largely to her advanced age. The deceased, whose maiden name was Catherine Knapp, was born in Germany on December 8, 1828, making her age 82 years, 3 months and 14 days.

THE ALASKA PURCHASE

Wonderful Progress Made in the Country During the Last 44 Years.

It was 44 years ago on Monday that Russia ceded Alaska to the United States for $7,200,000 Surely the best of Uncle Sam's good angels must have been busy on his behalf when that deal was made, for if ever there was a real "bargain" it was when Seward bought "Russian America," as it was then called, for that comparatively insignificant sum—not much more than the price of a modern multimillionaire's dwelling.

Alaska contains 590,000 square miles, an area exceeding that of the original 13 states of the union, about one-fifth the size of the United States, or nearly equal to the combined areas of the New England, middle and southern states east of the Mississippi.

And this immense territory is far from being the barren region it was once supposed to be. On the other hand, it is now known that its locked up wealth is simply inconceivable. It is rich in coal, forests, the precious metals, fish and furs, and even in the way of agriculture it has been shown that its possibilities are considerable.

Alaska has paid for itself many times over, and only a beginning has been made in its development. The annual output of gold is larger than the price that was given for it—$8,000,000. Its total gold output since it was purchased is close to $75,000,000. Its direct revenue to the government in the meantime has been over $10,000,000. Every year its "pack" of salmon is worth $8,500,000; while the market value of its yearly fur product foots up above the three million mark.

Hundreds of millions of dollars are invested in the development of Alaska. The salmon-canning industry alone has an investment of $25,000,000. Railroads are being built along the valleys of the great rivers. There are regular lines of large passenger steamers between Seattle and Valdez Juneau is already a respectable, hustling, up-to-date city, with two newspapers, an illustrated monthly magazine, a live bank, macadamized streets, a dramatic club and milliners' shops that contain all the latest "creations."

The population of Alaska has grown from about 500 in 1880 to 75,000. The territory has between 400 and 500 miles of railway. with 1,500 miles on the way to completion. It has 30 daily and weekly newspapers, and the nucleus of a splendid school system. In a word, Alaska is moving ahead faster than any other region over which the flag flies.

Grace Methodists Dissatisfied.

The appointment of the Rev. C. T. Dunning, of Altoona, to the pastorate of the Grace Methodist church, Williamsport, has not met with the approval of the official board of the church, and at a meeting held Friday night it was decided to enter a protest against the appointment with Bishop Anderson and District Superintendent Stevens. A committee was appointed to look after the interests of the church, but just what action is contemplated has not been made known. One of the members of the committee when interviewed declined to make any statement. It is understood that the protest against the appointment of the Rev. Mr. Dunning is not due to any objection to that gentleman personally, but is rather on account of the bishop and his cabinet failing to send the Rev. A. S. Williams, of Muncy, who had been asked for, to the Grace church to succeed the Rev. J. K. Lloyd, who was transferred to Danville—Sun.

Warning for Railroaders.

Pennsylvania railroad officials in Williamsport are preparing notices warning conductors and engineers to be careful while running through Lock Haven. At a recent meeting of that borough council a resolution was passed authorizing the police to arrest any conductor who held his train on any crossing for more than four minutes, unless in actual transit, when he may occupy the crossing for eight minutes. A fine of $25 for each offense is provided by the ordinance.

Foley Kidney Pills.

Just the right medicine for backache, rheumatism Bright's disease and all urinary irregularities. C. Bichler, 2315 6th Ave., Altoona, Pa., says: "For several years I was troubled with my kidneys and bladder and 'tho I had taken different medicines I received no relief. Foley Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and I started using them. The first few doses relieved me and after using only a few bottles I am entirely cured of all kidney and bladder trouble. The action of my kidneys was irregular and painfull and I was troubled with backaches and dizzy spells. Foley Kidney Pills were the means of restoring me to good health and I do not hesitate to recommend them." Sold by C. M. Parrish.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Bellefonte People

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Bellefonte.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

Mrs. B. F. Dietrich, 391 E. Bishop St., Bellefonte, Pa., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I do not hesitate one moment in confirming the public statement I gave in their praise in Oct. 1907. A member of my family complained a great deal of backache and headaches and I had heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills that I procured a supply at Green's Pharmacy Co. Their use effected a complete cure and also strengthened the kidneys. The benefit received has been permanent and I have thus been convinced that Doan's Kidney Pills live up to representation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Woman Mistaken For Mrs. Roosevelt.

Mrs. F. G. Clemens, of Pottsville, Pa., as the result of mistaken identity Friday received attentions intended for Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

A clerk from the hotel at Santa Barbara, Cal., where Mrs. Roosevelt had engaged accommodations, was assigned to go to Los Angeles to attend Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, on the trip north.

When the clerk greeted Mrs. Clemens as Mrs. Roosevelt she immediately assumed the part in a spirit of fun and during the hundred-mile journey the clerk wasvery attentive.

The hotel management had arranged for a special carriage to meet the distinguished guests at the depot and Mrs. Clemens and her two daughters rode in it to the hotel, while Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter occupied the ordinary hotel bus.

Both Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel were very much amused when informed of the blunder.

The Tri-State Opens May 3.

The Tri-State League base ball season will open May 3 and close September 6, with each club playing 112 games, according to the official schedule as made public by President Carpenter.

The league will again be composed of eight clubs, Johnstown, Altoona, Harrisburg, York, Reading, Lancaster, Trenton and Wilmington. The Wilmington Club is the new organization in the circuit, taking the place of the Williamsport team. True to its name, the league will have clubs in three states.

The choicest of dates are this season well divided, each club getting an almost equal number of "big day" games.

President Carpenter, in announcing the schedule, predicted the biggest season ever enjoyed by the circuit, and took the occasion to score those who have criticised the reduced salary limit.

A Warning

The editor sat in his office whence all but him had fled, and he wished that every last dead beat was in his grave—stone dead. His mind then wandered far away to the time when he should die, and his royal editorial soul go scooting to the sky; when he'd roam the fields of Paradise and sail o'er Jasper seas and all things glorious would combine his every sense to please. He thought then how he'd look across the great gulf dark and drear, that'll yawn between his happy soul and those who swindled here, and when for water they would call, and in agony they'd caper, he'd shout to them: "Just quench your thirst with the due that's on your paper."—Exchange.

Couldn't Tell Which.

A brewer in Philadelphia says that one morning he observed an unusually expansive smile on the face of the jovial German who is foreman at the establishment. An interesting event had occurred at the home of the foreman the night before. "I congratulate you, Hans," smilingly said the employer. 'Of course, the new arrival is a wonder?" "Of course it is!" was the emphatic reply. "Dis baby vays more than fifdeen bounds!" "Splendid! And is it a boy or a girl?" "Py golly!" he exclaimed in chagrin. "In de excitement I half forgotten to find out vedder I vas a grandfather or a grandmudder."

Purchases New Home.

Ex-Governor Edwin S. Stuart has purchased from William K. Holman the stone residence, 5841 Drexel road, Overbrook, a suburb of Philadelphia. The property measures 105x192 feet and include a stable beside the main buildings. Mr. Stuart sold his South Broad street residence last year. He will move into his new home in the near future. Nearby are the homes of Alexander Simpson, Jr., Herman Dercum and J. G. Balfour.

"Twenty-two years ago, with the Holy Spirit as my guide, I entered this wonderful temple called Christianity. I entered at the portico of Genesis, walked down through the old Testament art gallery where the pictures of Noah, Abraham, Moses, Joseph, Isaac, Jacob and Daniel hung on the wall. I passed into the music room of Psalms, where the spirit swept the keyboard of nature and brought forth the dirge-like wail of the weeping prophet Jeremiah to the grand impassioned strain of Isaiah, until it seemed that every reed and pipe in God's great organ of nature responded to the tuneful harp of David, the sweet singer of Israel. I entered the chapel of Ecclesiastics, where the voice of the preacher was heard, and into the conservatory of Sharon, and the Lily of the Valley's sweet scented spices filled and perfumed my life. I entered the business office of the Proverbs, then into the observatory room of the prophets where I saw telescopes of various sizes, some pointing to far-off events, but all concentrated upon the bright and morning star, which was to rise above the moonlit hills of Judea for our salvation. I entered the audience room of the King of Kings, and caught a vision of his glory from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John; passed into the Acts of the Apostles, where the Holy Spirit was doing his work in the formation of the infant church; then into the correspondence room, where sat Matthew, Mark, Luke, John, Paul, Peter, James and Jude penning their epistles. I stepped into the throne room of Revelation, where all towered into glittering peaks, and I got a vision of the King sitting upon His throne in all His glory, and cried:

All hail the power of Jesus' name,
Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem
And crown Him Lord of all.

Can Court in Church.

Rev. John Thompson, of the Methodist church in Wheaton, Ill., has begun a crusade to induce lovers to give up excursions to "lobster palaces" and urges them to bring midnight lunches and do their courting in the church pews. His rules will allow the sentimentally stricken to stay late, with a big room and piano in a portion of the church, and 100 pews as roomy as davenports, in which they can disport themselves if they wish.

"There is no better place in the world for young people to do their courting than in church," announced the pastor. "I believe in matchmaking—that is, in the right kind of matchmaking. I think that every church should make provision for upright young men and good young men and good young women to meet, and should arrange matters so that they fall in love with each other.

"This talk about dinners at lobster palaces and expensive seats at theatres and taxicab bills is a mistake. A good girl who really loves a man does not want to see him make a fool of himself when he is courting her, any more than she wants to see him do so after they are married."

Their Honorable Poverty.

Albert Rosenthal, the distinguished painter, of Philadelphia, who has made portraits of several Justices of the United States Supreme Court, testified before a Congressional Committee that, while several eminent men wanted to buy the portraits for their families, they said they couldn't afford it. He reports Justice Harlan as saying:

"I would like to have that portrait. I borrowed $1,000 when I was married and every year since, when I fix up my accounts, I find I still owe that $1,000."

The Justices now receive salaries of $12,500 each, but that is none too much to live on and keep up their positions. Wielding their tremendous power over moneyed interests, their poverty is in the last degree honorable to them.

Richer Than Rockefeller.

It is currently believed that Frederick Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, "the lumber king," is richer than John D. Rockefeller, who usually is called the wealthiest man in the world. Mr. Weyerhaeuser, who is in his seventy-eighth year, probably has no adequate idea as to the extent of his own wealth. His property consists largely of immense areas of timberlands, the value of which it is difficult to compute. He owns more timber than any other man on earth, it is said. No monarch had such vast holdings on earth surface. Timber emperor is a fitter title for him than lumber king. Mr. Weyerhaeuser is a native of Neidersaulheim, Germany. He came to this country nearly sixty years ago and grew up with it.

STATE COLLEGE SOPHOMORES

The sophomores of State College visited Altoona, Friday, seventy-five strong and held a big celebration, yet Altoona hardly knew she was entertaining them. A number arrived on Thursday and many more came in Friday morning. A rousing yell from the bunch that came in on one of the morning trains was the first thing on the day's program. In the afternoon the visitors went to the Orpheum and the smaller theatres of the town and at 6 o'clock they sat down to a sumptuous banquet at the Logan house. In the evening all went to the Mishler theatre, to see "The Girl and the Kaiser." They occupied the boxes and the theatre had been decorated especially for them.

The rather-expected outbreak never came. The other class men had stayed at home and the sophomores went through their day's fun in peace. In the afternoon the Orpheum show went off with the same easy pace that has characterized the rest of the week, while at the Mishler once there was a yell. A few tried once to say something to one of the actors and the company ignored the break. The students then quieted down and everything went off as smooth as glass.

Bridge at Hell Gate.

If there be no further delays, Hell Gate, which is the name of the turbulent straits that connect Long Island Sound and Harlem river with the East river, will be spanned within the next three years by one of the largest and longest railway bridges in the world, and one of the loftiest as well. With approaches it will be about two miles in length, a bridge which will bring the South and Southwest and much of the Midwest into actual physical contact with New England.

From the architectural and engineering point of view this bridge is to be one of the new wonders of the American continent, for it is to be built not only with a view to architectural attractiveness but to be capable of maintaining the vast traffic which it is expected will, in the course of a few years, pass over it. It is a national rather than a local undertaking, since the city of New York is to have no financial interest in it.

The great railway system of New England, the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and the greatest railway system of the East, the Pennsylvania, are to be, through a subsidiary company, the joint owners and operators of this bridge.

Sortman Taken to Washington.

The Williamsport Sun says that Harry Sortman who tired of Uncle Sam's hardtack and beans, and then thought he'd commit suicide by drinking carbolic acid and when that didn't go gave himself up at the regular army recruiting station in this city, as a deserter and was locked up at the county jail, was taken to Washington, Friday afternoon, by a sergeant who was sent after him.

After Sortman was turned over to the sheriff the prisoner began to show evidences of an unsound mind, at least that is what the jail authorities thought. It is not believed, in view of all the circumstances, that Sortman's superiors are going to be very hard on him. He was sent to jail wearing his uniform. He had overstayed a furlough two or three days and this weighed upon his mind. The fellow magnified his offense greatly in his own estimation, and had visions of a long term in a military prison.

Arbor Days Fixed.

April 7 and 28 are fixed as the spring arbor days by Governor Tener, who has issued a proclamation, in which he says:

"In foreign countries where many large areas have been entirely denuded of trees, the frequency of floods, freshets and famines has shown the evil effects of the wanton destruction of forests. Those governments which have established rational systems of forestry have thereby set an example worthy of imitation by other states and nations. A far-sighted policy of conservation and reforesting should, therefore, be pursued everywhere for the benefit of present and future generations. If Arbor day is to be properly observed, trees must be planted, and something of practical value concerning trees should be taught in the school and at home."

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since."—A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Tex.

Guthrie Accepts.

Ex-Mayor George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburg, on Monday announced that he would accept the Democratic State chairmanship, to which he was chosen by the recently appointed reorganization committee. The same committee, it will be recalled, selected A. Mitchell Palmer to succeed Colonel J. M. Guffey in the Democratic National Committee.

It is said that Democratic State Chairman Dewalt will refuse to be ousted at the hands of the reorganization committee and that he will fight the matter in the courts. Guthrie claims that his election was legal and that Dewalt will have no standing in the courts. Since the same committee which ousted Guffey originally elected him to the National Committee, it is believed that he will not contest the election of Mr. Palmer.

Late Primaries.

It is apparently settled that the date for holding the primaries is to be advanced to the last Saturday in September. This change will be welcomed by many but will cause disappointment to those aspirants who have been at considerable expense vigorously canvassing the county to be in readiness for a test of strength in June. Once the new plan is in operation and well established, however, we believe it will prove more satisfactory than the present law. It will in reality result in a candidate making but one campaign, saving him no little expense and inconvenience, and at the same time it will eliminate politics during the greater part of the year. Under the present system the aspirant for nomination takes the field until the primaries in June. By the middle of August the several nominees are back in the field and they are compelled to continue canvassing until November. They thus put in seven or eight months in campaigning and during the greater part of that period they must necessarily neglect or sacrifice their private business.

As we understand the proposed system, the primaries will not be held until six weeks in advance of the November election. While it may be argued that a nominee will not have much time in which to present his claims to the voters, it is also true that in this respect no one candidate will have any advantage over another. All will be on the same footing.

There are some who believe that late primaries will not work out satisfactorily. They are entitled to their views just the same as those who favor the change. The present system is acceptable to some and objectionable to others. It will be well to try out the proposed change before condemning it. If it proves to be all right and by experience is found a better plan than the present, all well and good. If not, it will be a simple matter to return to the June primaries principle. If the new plan is not a good one it will correct itself.

Get the Hook.

The Bellefonte Republican devotes a column on its first page in a reflection on the intelligence of two Penns Valley citizens who in summing up the county statement are quoted as having read "Turnkey" turkey in the expense account in the Delige case. Of course, this never happened; no one from Penns Valley (Democrat or Republican) went to the Commissioners office and made a kick because Delige was fed twenty dollars' worth of turkey, but it does show Editor Dorworth's opinion of the intelligence of the people on the south side of Centre County.—Centre Hall Reporter.

"The Republican" admires one who is an adept in his line, even though his line be that of playing to the galleries. At the same time, however, when we see a near-adept making a sorry fist of his efforts to "put one over" on an intelligent, enlightened community, we sympathize with the boy in the gallery and join him in his pained cry of "get the hook." The attempt of the "Centre Hall Reporter" to "put one over" on the citizens of Penns Valley is so ludicrous and crude as to make comment unnecessary. We respectfully submit to the citizens of Penns Valley, without a word on our part to assure them of our respect, that their intelligence is in reality insulted, and for the first time, by the clumsy scheme of the "Reporter" in putting up an imaginary enemy and then firing blank cartridges in their defense.

Parent Teachers Association.

The Parent-Teachers Association will meet next Tuesday evening, April 4, in the auditorium of the New High School building. The opening exercises will be furnished by about ninety pupils from the first and second grades of the New High School building. D. F. Sunday Closing of Post Office.

At a meeting of the Bellefonte Ministerium held Tuesday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. building, to which the business men of Bellefonte had been invited, Postmaster Harter and Asst. Postmaster Chambers presented information relative to the work now imposed upon their men every Sunday morning, in order that a Sunday office delivery of mail can be made.

It was stated that a force of eight (8) men were at work several hours every Sunday morning; that only a limited number of patrons called at the office for their mail and that some of the largest business firms never lifted their mail on Sunday. Because of the Sunday morning delivery of mail at this office these eight men are prevented from enjoying their lawful day of rest and denied the privilege of attending Sunday morning services.

Believing that all unnecessary work on the Lord's Day is wrong and that the employes of the Post Office have a right to their Sunday as a day of rest, which accords with the opinion of the Postmaster General, who believes that every man is entitled to one day of rest in every seven, the Bellefonte Ministerium unanimously agree to request the Hon. Postmaster General to instruct the Postmaster of the Bellefonte office to discontinue all Sunday delivery of mail to patrons, in-so-far as such an order will not conflict with any existing rules of the Post Office Department.

In taking such action we realize that we are making no unusual or unreasonable request, but are following the example of many cities and towns through out the United States.

We further believe that the closing of our Post Office on Sunday will aid very materially in effecting better observance of the Lord's Day in this community.

Champ Clark's Record.

Champ Clark's campaign for the democratic nomination in 1912 isn't to be permitted to progress smoothly if his opponents can dig up anything in his record to prevent, and they think they can. The first thing to be flashed on the speaker-to-be is an address made some years ago in the House in which he paid his respects to Grover Cleveland.

Somebody has been peeping into the Congressional Record and has unearthed the speaker-to-be's remarks about the last democratic president. This is what Mr. Clark said:

"The election of Grover Cleveland to the presidency was the greatest calamity that has happened the human race since the fall of Adam."

Now that is putting it pretty strongly, and even the anti-Cleveland men may object to his having the election of Cleveland termed a greater calamity than, for instance, Noah's flood or the fall of the Roman empire, while the remark is likely to set the Cleveland admirers in the democratic ranks—and there are thousands of them—by the ears. The incident will be quoted as typical of the loose way Mr. Clark has of talking when he cranks up his 40-horsepower vocabulary.

There are many similar examples of Mr. Clark's oratory in the Record and his political boom is likely to have a troublesome flight.

It is no secret among Mr. Clark's friends that he is taking his political boom very seriously. They believe he is counting on the support of W. J. Bryan.

The Grenfell Lecture.

There may be some people in Bellefonte who do not know Dr. Grenfell of the Labrador and Newfoundland coasts for a thousand miles, where the deep-sea fisherfolk work and he works; who lectures in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church, Saturday evening, with views.

"He is surgeon, master-mariner, magistrate, agent of Lloyds in running down rascals who wreck their vessels for the insurance, manager of a string of co-operative stores, general opponent of fraud and oppression." (Outlook)

It is wonderful work with small means; the results are not small, and are quite new in the world. He has already established five hospitals and a hospital ship with which to carry on his work. He needs more. A dozen cities and institutions are taking a hand in his work. Good will is as ready as ever, when the occasion calls.

Apart from philanthropy, it will be a unique entertainment, this illustrated lecture for money to do good things for those fishing people. The price of admission will be $1.00 and 50 cents.

Woman's Anxiliary.

The Woman's Anxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association will meet in the Y. M. C. A. builing on Monday evening, April 3rd, at 8 o'clock. All the members are especially requested to be present. There will be a discussion of the general work of the Anxiliary and particular business will be the arrangement for a supper to be given, Friday, April 7th, to the sixty boys who have been regular attendants at the Sunday afternoon meetings.

A Joke on the King.

Sir Ernest Cassel was persona grata with King Edward VII. As a matter of fact there was a curious and striking resemblance between the back view of the late king and that of Sir Ernest. It was so pronounced that the great financier was known among his friends as "Windsor Castle."

There is a good story and a true one told in connection with this. It happened at a garden party at Windsor castle. A well known peer of the realm was strolling about when, as he thought, he spotted Sir Ernest sitting in a chair. Going toward him on tiptoe, he gave him a resounding smack on the shoulder.

"Hello, old Windsor Castle!" he cried, "How are you?"

The occupant of the chair, startled, turned around. It was King Edward, who, unaware of Sir Ernest's nickname, was for a time exceedingly vexed at this undue liberty. However, when the circumstances were explained to him he enjoyed the joke hugely.—London M. A. P.

The Bull Snake.

The bull snake, a species of pine snake, inhabits the shady pine woods along the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Florida, but other species are found almost everywhere except in New England. The bull snake is quite harmless, but is a powerful constrictor. It lays eggs and feeds upon birds, rodents and eggs. It swallows an egg whole, and after the egg has passed a few inches down the throat—where it forms a large swelling—the serpent lifts its head, elevates its back and exerts a downward pressure until the shell breaks. Owing to a curious constriction of its epiglottis its hiss is so loud and so well sustained as to resemble the sound of redhot iron being plunged in water. The maximum length of these snakes is seven and a half feet. Their color is white, with the exception of the head and back, the former being spotted black and the latter brown.—Wide World Magazine.

Beggars and Bandages.

It was a case in which first aid to the injured was imperative, but no one present knew how to extend the aid. Presently a bandaged beggar who had been sitting on the curb cast off his pretense of helplessness. Out of linen strips provided by the women in the crowd he fashioned bandages and applied them skillfully.

"Where did you acquire all that skill in nursing?" a bystander asked.

"It is one of the first things the men of our profession learn," was the candid response. "Half our success depends upon arrangement of bandages that makes us look as if we had been half killed. No doctor can be depended on to fix us up, so we have to do our own bandaging. Every successful man in the business practices on himself and the other fellows until he can turn out a first class job."—New York Sun.

Johnny Roche's Tower.

Standing on the banks of the river Awberg, between Mallow and Fermoy, County Cork, Ireland, is a remarkable edifice known as "Johnny Roche's Tower." The whole tower was built by the labor of one man, who subsequently resided in it. This individual, who received no education whatever, also erected a mill, constructing the water wheel after a special design of his own. Long before the introduction of the bicycle he went about the country in a wheeled vehicle of his own construction, propelled by foot power. His last feat was to build his tomb in the middle of the river bed. John Roche died, but was not interred in the strange burying place which he selected for himself, his less original relatives deeming such a mode of sepulture unchristian.—London Strand Magazine.

The Origin of Pyrography.

About a century ago an artist named Cranch was standing one day in front of a fire in his home at Axminster. Over the fireplace was an oaken mantelpiece, and it occurred to Cranch that this expanse of wood might be improved by a little ornamentation. He picked up the poker, heated it red hot and began to sketch in a bold design. The result pleased him so much that he elaborated his work and began to attempt other fire pictures on panels of wood. These met with a ready sale, and Cranch soon gave all his time to his new art. This was the beginning of what is now known as pyrography.

Neglected Opportunities.

"This is the site of an ancient city," announced the Arab guide. "As you see, not one stone remains upon another."

"You fellows lack enterprise," commented the tourist. "Why don't you take some of this building material and construct some ruins?"—Pittsburg Post.

The best way of answering a bad argument is not to stop it, but let it go on its course until it overleaps the boundaries of common sense.—Sydney Smith.

The Irishman's Resource.

In his volume of essays, "Dreams Dead Earnest and Half Jest," Mr. Coulson Kernahan compares his compatriots, the natives of the Green Isle, with the English:

"That your Englishman never knows when he is beaten is the veriest platitude. In all the world there is no nationality which can play a losing game with such desperate doggedness. I venture to think, however, that the Irishman—and therein is perhaps a reason why he excels in the art of war—is more resourceful, is quicker to think and quicker to act.

"An Englishman, finding himself in a corner so tight that any one else would decide at once that there was nothing for it but surrender or retreat, says, 'Here I am, and here I'll stick to be shot at till I'm killed or till relief comes.' An Irishman in the same place would say: 'It's the mischief's own hole I'm in! But wait now! What way 'll I be getting out?' And get out the Irishman generally does, for he is so resourceful that his resourcefulness might sometimes be better described as slipperiness."

The Making of a Business Man.

So many panes of glass in old Mr. Viner's greenhouse had been broken that he had at last offered a reward of 10 shillings to any one who should give information as to the identity of the latest offender. The bait soon drew. A youngster called on Mr. Viner and informed him that a lad named Archie Thompson was a guilty party. He received his reward, went away rejoicing, and the old gentleman forthwith wrote to the local schoolmaster demanding the production of the said Archie Thompson to make good the damage he had done to his windows.

Next day the informer called again.

"The schoolmaster sent me," he said briskly. "I've seen a glazier, and he'll put your glass right for 3 shillings. Here it is, and"—

"Not so fast, my lad," said Mr. Viner. "Have you come on behalf of Archie Thompson?"

"Well, yes, sir, in a way," said the boy. "Fact is," he continued confidentially, "I'm him!"—London Answers.

Wesley and Tea.

In his younger days John Wesley found it difficult to stop drinking tea. He wrote in 1746: "We agreed it would prevent great expense, as well of health as of time and of money, if the poorer people of our society could be persuaded to leave off drinking of tea. We resolved ourselves to begin and set the example. I expect some difficulty in breaking off a custom of six and twenty years' standing, and accordingly the first three days my head ached and I was half asleep from morning to night. The third day my memory failed almost entirely. On Thursday my headache was gone, my memory as strong as ever, and I have found no inconvenience, but a sensible benefit in several respects from that day to this."

Later in life Wesley returned to the use of tea, as his big teapot preserved in his house in London shows.—Chicago News.

Once a Sailor Always a Sailor.

Charitable institutions often find it hard to learn the occupations of those admitted. A man who has followed several trades when asked his occupation names the one he regards as most dignified, even if he has not followed it for years. The Survey tells of a case that happened in the Cook County infirmary. The man "at the age of nineteen was a sailor for one year. His career as a sailor ended with an accident on the ship by which he lost a leg. For the next thirty-six years he took various jobs as caretaker and the like, such as a crippled person can obtain. Yet when after thirty-six years of independence he was finally forced to take refuge in a poorhouse he puts himself down on the entrance card as a sailor, and one feels in that word the pride of a Norse son of the sea."

A Nickname For Barrett.

Lawrence Barrett, the tragedian, was subject to dyspepsia, and when he was suffering from that disorder he was cold and distant toward his company. One irreverent fellow always refused, however, to be suppressed. He said one day: "Just look at Cassius. He looks as solemn and righteous as if he'd swallowed the sword of justice. Let's call him the Scabbard." And the Scabbard he was—out of his hearing—for the rest of that season.

Costly Dressing.

Mrs. Washington Terrace consented to be interviewed.

"What? Dress on $600 a year?"

She made a wry grimace with her face and hands.

"Why, I couldn't dress my salads on $600 a year," she said.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

New York Capitol Burned.

New York's Capitol building, at Albany, the most costly state capitol in the United States, was gutted by fire yesterday. The loss was estimated at $17,000,000. Many valuable records were destroyed. The night watchman of the building is missing and may have been burned to death. The building originally cost $26,000,000.

Thought Boy Was Dead.

An employe of Kistler's tannery, at Lock Haven, suddenly disappeared the other day, leaving his dinner pail and working jacket in their accustomed place. He didn't turn up at home and friends feared he had fallen into one of the vats. Several of them were drained before it was learned that the young man was at Pine, visiting his grandmother.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Mrs. Hugh N. Crider, of Bellefonte, spent Tuesday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Freeman, in Tyrone.

Miss Ethel Dale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Dale, who had been spending a short vacation in Bellefonte, left on Tuesday to resume her studies at the Woman's College at Baltimore, Md. While here she had a very pleasant time.

Frank Eckenroth, of Sunbury, spent Sunday in Bellefonte as the guest of his brother, Charles Eckenroth, on Howard Street. He has abandoned steeple climbing and is employed in the boiler shop of the P. R. R., at that place.

Dr. Thomas S. Wilcox, who had been leading the Methodists of Bellefonte by green pastures for the last two years, with his family, left on Wednesday afternoon for his new field of labor at Waynesboro. He will preach his first sermon there next Sunday.

On Sunday William Larimer, manager of the Palace Livery, left Bellefonte for Mifflin, county where, this week, he purchased a number of fine horses. He found quite a number of fine animals over there but it would take John D's wealth to buy them. The steeds he brought with him are all right.

Harry Otto has sold his stock of cigars, etc., to Lew Wallace and will store his pool and billiard tables until he is able to find a desirable location. He has been looking for such a location for several months, both in Bellefonte and nearby towns, but thus far has not found what he wants. During the summer it is probable that he will go on the road for the American Tobacco Company. Finkelstine, the 5 and 10-cent store man, will occupy the Otto room in the Aiken block

On Monday evening an amusing incident took place at the P. R. R. passenger station when the 8.20 train came in. George Freeman, porter for the Bush House and "Billy" Green, representing the Brockerhoff House, gave an exhibition of voice culture. Gerge Freeman is no spring chicken anymore but he still has good lungs and he made "Billy" do an awful lot of yelling. You would almost have imagined that the train was at the Milesburg station instead of Bellefonte by the way they sounded out the names of their respective hotels, so it was very difficult to tell just which did come out best.

On Friday and Saturday J. Finklestine will move his ten cent store from the room in the Bush Arcade to the room on south Allegheny street, recently occupied by Harry Otto as a pool room. The moving of this store is no light job, as everything in it is very small. He has a large stock and when he gets it up there it will keep him guessing until he gets it on the shelves again. Mr. Finklestine is a very fine young man who deserves success, and his many friends hope to hear that the change has been for the better. He has also leased the room above the one on the first floor, so that he will have more space there than he had at the old stand.

"My Cinderella Girl."

There is enough entertainment in "My Cinderella Girl" for a dozen musical comedies. It is a good farce, overflowing with ludicrous situations and bright and sparkling repartee. There is an exciting baseball game at the end of the third act which imparts just the requisite thrill to the spectatora. At Garman's Opera House, Monday evening, April 3.

Along with other sections of the state Howard experienced the thunder, rain, hail and wind storm on Monday, with the blizzard that followed in its wake.

A representative of the Keystone Block Company, of Williamsport, was here this week and purchased the lumber of the Howard Handle & Spoke Company.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weber and son Walter, Mrs. Bouse, Parker Thompson, Hubert Hannon, Mrs. W. H. Holter and George and H. A. Moore were business visitors to Bellefonte on Saturday.

Prof. F. M. Pletcher and family moved last week from their former home at Blanchard to Howard. Having been born and raised in the township both Mr. and Mrs. Pletcher will feel at home here.

Mr. Price, inspector of accountants, from the Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, was here on Monday, and of course found our station agent, Mr. Cook, the same expert in figures as he has always been.

Mrs. E. C. Deitz, who has been engaged at a fraternity house in State College for several seasons, is moving her household effects to that place and will in the future conduct a boarding house.

Rev. Owen Hicks, a former pastor of the Methodist church here, called in town last week to greet his many friends. "Bro." Hicks was transferred from Costello to DuBoistown by the recent conference.

Blacksmith David L. Welch suffered an attack of acute indigestion last week, but is improving under skilful medical care. Some years ago Mr. Welch underwent an operation for appendicitis and since then he has not always enjoyed the best of health.

The house made vacant by the removal of Peter Robb, Jr., to Marsh Creek, is now occupied by Ira C. Johnson and wife. The house vacated by the Johnsons is occupied by Mrs. W. R. Gardner, who comes from her farm in the township. Mrs. Mary Wensel has moved into the Wetzel property.

Several weeks ago when P. B. Swartz left for Florida he promised some of his friends that he would send them each a box of oranges. Last week a number of boxes arrived here by express consigned to the parties to whom he made the promises and since then his friends have been enjoying the delicious fruit from the Southland.

A pleasant social anticipation in Howard at present is the coming marriage of Irvin D. Jordon to Miss Zelma Yearick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yearick. Mr. Jordon is one of the genial telegraph operators in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and also conducts the grocery store on Walnut street opposite Moore's drug store.

During the fore part of the week a subscription paper was started for the purpose of erecting concrete steps at the upper gate leading to the Schenck cemetery. The movement met with popular approval and the necessary amount is being readily secured. The steps will be made wide, with a six-inch rise and twelve feet long, which will make them easy of asoent and sufficiently large for all occasions.

Several weeks ago the correspondent inquired if Prof. Pletcher, principal of the schools would conduct a summer normal and was informed that he would not. Since then we have learned that Howard Robb, who taught one of the Benner township schools during the past term would conduct a select school here, beginning April 17. Thus an opportunity will be afforded our young teachers and students to further equip themselves during the summer months.

The last literary meeting of the High school was held Friday evening last, there being a larger audience than at any time during the term. The question for debate, was "Resolved, that the automobile is a nuisance." The question was well debated but the negative side had the better of the argument. The remainder of the program consisted of singing, several recitations, and best of all was the dialogue, "Marrying a Poetess," which caused much laughter during the time it was being played.

Pine Grove Mills.

Winter is with us—that is, off and on.

Carpenter John Reynolds, with a gang of men, is hustling along the new house on the burned site on the Henry farm.

A terrific storm—rain, hail and sleet, accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning and heavy peals of thunder—passed over this section on Monday afternoon.

George Hall, the new tenant farmer on the Charles Snyder farm at White Hall, was obliged to kill one of his gray horses on Sunday. The animal broke one of its hind legs.

Paul Ward and Carl Houser, students at Franklin & Marshall, and William Sunday, of the Susquehanna University, are spending their Easter vacation at their respective homes in the valley.

The Jacob Herman sale on Saturday was well attended. Bidding was spirited and stock of all kinds brought good prices. The mated team of grays was hammered down to ex-County Treasurer John Q. Miles, for $440.

Little Johnnie, son of Mr. and Mrs John H. Meyer, came near meeting a sad death on Monday. While the mother was busily engaged, the child, in an unguarded moment, fell into a bucket of almost scalding water. At this writing the little chap is getting along nicely, although he has suffered considerably as a result of his unfortunate experience.

The members of the Reformed church, at a meeting on Sunday, last, elected the following officers for the Sunday School: J. H. Meyer, superintendent; J. F. Meyer, assistant superintendent; James A. Decker, secretary; J. C. Struble, treasurer; Margaret Wright, librarian; Mabel Meyer, assistant librarian. Teachers were chosen, as follows: Samuel Grove and Miss Keichline, Bible class; Miss Wright and Mrs. Struble, No. 2; Mrs. J. H. Meyer and Mrs. J. F. Meyer, No. 3; Mrs. J. A. DEATH IN THE CUP!

Dr. Dixon, State Health Commissioner, says: "Every one should have his or her own individual Drinking Cup. A cup that is in general use is a breeder of disease—Is not sanitary—is never sterilized, and is an abomination." In order that there may be no excuse for this danger to exist in this community, we will present (while they last) to each cash purchaser of 25 cents, and upward, presenting in person or sending by mail the subjoined coupon

A Collapsible Aluminum Drinking Cup

This cup is made of heavy aluminum, is in four sections, with cover, and stands 3 inches high. Bottom rim is turned downward, preventing water collecting within the rim. For such a cup you would have to pay 25 cents anywhere.

Love and a Laundry Check

The Way Two Lovers Became Reunited.

By MABEL D. CALHOUN

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Well—I'll—be—jiggered!"

Chris Webb brought his horse to a standstill and stared down at the small square of yellow paper that fluttered before Dixie's dancing hoofs like a will-o'-the-wisp of the daytime. Suddenly he dug his knees into Dixie's shoulders, and as she sprang forward Chris leaned over and caught the flying paper with a practiced hand. Then he scanned it closely and uttered a long drawn whistle.

Plainly it was a Chinese laundry check and represented to its owner a necessary article of wearing apparel that probably lay unclaimed in the wash house of some moon faced Celestial.

A laundry check found on the sidewalk in town is a common occurrence. A laundry check discovered in an obscure canyon in the desert regions of Arizona becomes a matter for considerable interest, especially if one has just convinced himself that this particular canyon has never been trod by the foot of civilized man.

"There isn't a Chink laundry within fifty miles, or I'm a sinner! And I was sure I'd struck a new trail, and after naming that gulley and all to find this!"

Hours afterward when he rolled dustily up to the bunk house and turned Dixie over to the friendly proffered services of Dutchy Fink there was some comment on his extended absence.

"Where's the critter?" asked Henderson, making room for his comrade at the table and passing Webb's cup to be filled.

"Dead," replied Christopher, his strong white teeth biting deep into a hunk of corn bread. "I followed the trail clean off the range into the sand and cactus and then I missed it. After awhile I saw a buzzard high in the air, and I guessed what had happened, so I followed and found the critter under a twisted cottonwood."

"Dead?" questioned Peters.

"Almost. Of course I couldn't leave her that way with that devilish buzzard hanging around, so"—he paused for another draft of coffee.

"So you shot her, Chris?"

"Yep, and then I shot the buzzard."

They laughed indulgently. "You always was soft hearted, Chris," commented Peters, filling his pipe. "Who'd stop to bore a strayed critter after chasing her twenty miles?"

"I would," said Chris in a voice that indicated he was weary of the topic. "Any you chaps got baccy?"

He deftly rolled a cigarette in his lean brown fingers and drew a light from Henderson's smoke. "Which one of you fellows is wearing biled shirts?" he asked lazily.

"Not guilty!" they cried in chorus, and Peters continued, "They ain't a chap had nerve enough to sport a biled shirt on the Three Forks outfit—not since Pinky Fleming was took for a ghost and a greaser shot him dead—right through the biled shirt!"

"Since then biled shirts has been looked on like sudden death," put in Henderson gravely. "No, sir, there ain't nobody on Little Forks wearing biled shirts. Why you ask, Chris?"

"Anybody know where there's a Chink laundry?" demanded Chris patiently.

"I expect there's one in Tucson," suggested Peters. "Seems like a dream—I remember shooting up a Chink laundry there. That was a long time ago," he added hastily.

"Then there ain't a Chink laundry nearer than Tucson?" said Chris.

"How about Cactus Branch?" suggested Redwood from his quiet corner. "Seems I recollect once when I was passing the Lone Horn—I was going to the roundup at the Branch, you know—some of the wimmen folks asked me would I leave a bundle at the laundry there and git a check for it. Being of an obliging nature, I jest naturally said I would, and I'm blamed if they didn't tote out a big, squashy bundle, and me expecting a couple of collars or mebbe a b'iled shirt! Mrs. Traymore—you know Jim Traymore's running the Lone Horn now—Mrs. Traymore says not to lose it, because it's a 'precious thing.' It's nothing but a fancy white dress her sister was expecting to wear to the schoolhouse dance, and the girl had set her heart it should be done up right and nobody but a Chink must do it.

"As I was roped in for the job I bows most polite and says I will leave the check on my way back. Well"—he paused and eyed his companions dubiously—"you all recollect the roundup at Cactus Branch."

"Being as it only happened last week, we have strong recollections," confessed Chris, rubbing his head thoughtfully. "We specially recollect all about you, Redwood, and you sure didn't take the trail by the Lone Horn when you came back, and you ain't been off this outfit since."

"That's right," admitted Redwood gloomily.

"What happened?"

"I left the squashy bundle all right, and the Chink said it would be 4 bits, and he gave me a piece of paper covered with turkey tracks, and now I don't know where the blamed paper is unless"— He brightened suddenly and slapped his knee. "Now, I reckon mebbe I made a cigarette out of it. I was short of paper about that time."

Henderson laughed loudly. "You'd have knowed it if you'd smoked that, Redwood. Mebbe we can help you out, because if that girl don't git to the dance, why, I don't know what us chaps will do. I've seen her."

"Is it that bad?" asked Peters sympathetically.

"She's a peacherino!" quoth Mr. Henderson warmly.

Chris got upon his feet and tossed away the end of his cigarette. "What trail did you follow when you came back from the roundup?" he yawned carelessly.

Redwood shook his head hopelessly. "I've been trying to figure that out ever since. I must have got lost, for I was three days getting back here, and I had nothing to eat"—

"You can cut that out," interjected Peters, grinning. "I found you at Bederman's, and that's over to the southeast—somewhere near where Chris has been after his stray critter."

Mr. Webb's air of langour increased. "Then I reckon this young lady can't go to the dance unless she gets this dress what the Chink is washing, eh?" He yawned again.

Redwood nodded. "I reckon it's the only party dress she's got; she seemed mighty particular about it," he said regretfully.

"And she can't get the dress without the check?" persisted Chris sleepily.

"No checkee, no shirtee!" returned Redwood.

"You going to the dance?"

Mr. Redwood smiled laboriously and ran his hand along one leg with a painful gesture. "I reckon my leg's most too stiff this time, so I guess I won't be around tomorrow night," he said.

They laughed heartlessly as they parted for the night.

In his own corner of the roughly partitioned bunk house Christopher Webb pulled the laundry check from his pocket and studied the strange hieroglyphics with thoughtful eyes. "I'll do it," he said suddenly. "I reckon she'll be mighty grateful to the one who brings back her party dress. I expect it's a pretty thing—all frills and furbelows and lacy stuff, like what Annie used to wear." His dark eyes became almost black with a sudden intensity of emotion, and his brows knitted painfully. "I wasn't cut out for a bookkeeper or for city life. If she'd only have seen that my coming into the open was my call to what I could do best, but she gave me the go by, and here I am! I'm a darned sight better off in some ways than I was there in Denver. I've got health and I've got a thousand salted away against the ranch I'll buy some day, but I haven't got her!"

His head drooped a little, and then, as if aware of his weakness, he threw back his shoulders and laughed softly. "No need to keep that other girl away from the party," he said in a low tone as he proceeded to make an elaborate toilet with such facilities as the ranch afforded.

It was past midnight when he let himself out of the door and made his way into the corral. It was the work of a moment to catch up a mount. This time it was a rawboned sorrel with a long raking stride that carried his rider over the trail with remarkable swiftness. At 10 o'clock the next morning Christopher Webb dismounted stiffly from the sorrel and entered the door of a Chinese laundry in the flourishing town of Cactus Branch. In his hand he carried a laundry check, and when he came forth he bore a large and squashy looking bundle, which he placed carefully before him when he remounted.

A brief stop for breakfast and then he was back on another trail, this time the one leading toward the Lone Horn. He knew Jim Traymore slightly, had met him three years before when Chris had first come out into the open, as he called his departure from the city, but he had not seen Jim recently. He had heard that he was married now and taken the Lone Horn.

At 5 o'clock he clattered up to the veranda of the Lone Horn ranch house and shouted in a stentorian voice:

"Laundry!"

There was a delighted shriek from within and light footsteps on the wooden floor of the hall. Then a slender form gowned in pale blue cotton darted across the veranda and held up eager arms for the bundle—a lovely golden haired girl with wistful blue eyes and a sadly drooping mouth, who did not see Christopher Webb's amazed face. She saw nothing save the bundle and a tall, kindly disposed cowboy who had ridden out of his way to oblige her.

"How can I thank you"— she was beginning when Christopher spoke from the shadow of his broad hat.

"Annie!" he said in a low tone.

Annie Lee looked at him for a moment, and then, dropping her head against his knee, she cried softly for awhile. "Elsie married Jim Traymore a year ago," she explained, "and I came out here to visit them. I didn't know where you were, Chris, but I felt somehow if I was out in this country I might be near you anyway. I—have wanted you so!"

When Christopher broke the news to his comrades at the Three Forks he added, laughing, "I reckon that there occasion will demand a biled shirt, eh, boys?"

"So do, so do," urged Henderson eagerly. "Seems like a wedding oughter break that there biled shirt hoodoo."

"You got any laundry checks up your sleeve?" demanded Peters of Henderson. "You speak kind of wishful, like you'd love to wear a biled shirt."

"I expect all of you to wear 'em when—when it's necessary—that is, when I'm married," said the happy Christopher authoritatively.

A Dream and Its Sequel.

"In one of the East Indian border wars there was engaged an officer of high repute, the member of an ancient county family," says Mrs. Mayo in "Recollections of Fifty Years." One night the laird, its head, started from his sleep, exclaiming:

"'There's the shot that has killed my brother!'

"His wife told him it was but a dream. He must have given an anxious thought to his brothers before going to sleep. Next day the pair were in the garden directing their gardeners when the laird suddenly exclaimed:

"'Do you hear the bagpipes?'

"'No,' answered the lady. 'I can hear nothing. I am sure there is no sound.'

"'Strange,' said the laird, 'for I can even hear what is played. It is "The Flowers o' the Forest Are A' Wefe Away."'

"A few hours later came the telegram reporting that the brother had been shot down by some border warrior and over his lonely grave the men of his regiment had played the pathetic air whose mysterious echo seemed to have reached the laird."

Shakespeare's Definition of Poetry.

What a pity it is that Shakespeare ever used that phrase "fine frenzy!" It has become a fuddlesome factor in the framing of foolish fancies. It is to the honor of Shakespeare, however, that he came nearer to giving the world the true definition of poetry than has any other man, for he did explain what constitutes the true art of poetry making, and from this we are enabled to know what Shakespeare considered poetry. Curiously enough, it is in the very passage where Shakespeare uses that unfortunate phrase "fine frenzy." Let us quote:

The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven,
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown the poet's pen
Turns them to shapes and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

—Hudson Maxim's "Science of Poetry and Philosophy of Language."

Hard to Understand.

Supposing some one should spring this on you rapidly and ask you what it meant: "Mare-zeat-toats-deer-zeat-toats-lam-sleativy-lit-tie-kid-slea-tivy-too."

You would never think it was plain English, but it is. It is simply: "Mares eat oats; deers eat oats; lambs 'll eat ivy; little kids 'll eat ivy too."

You should say this over many times to yourself until you can roll it off very quickly, run the words together, and then when you try it on your friends they will have to confess that they can't understand it. They will feel quite foolish when you show them that it is common English and that it sounds odd only because the words are spoken fast and run in together. It is this running of the words in together which makes it hard for a foreigner to understand our language or us theirs. —Omaha World-Herald.

England's Greatest Mine Fire.

The most serious colliery fire ever known in Britain was undoubtedly that which broke out at the Tawd valley mine, near Preston, in 1872. Thousands of pounds were spent in trying to get the flames under control, but they overcame everything and consumed some millions of tons of coal. A wall ten feet in thickness was built round the affected parts, but the heat cracked the masonry and brought it down as fast as it was rebuilt. However, in 1897 the river Tawd overflowed its banks and went pouring down into the mine. No fire could withstand such an immense volume of water hurled upon it, and, although the flames extended for 500 yards, they were quenched after having raged for a quarter of a century.—London Tit-Bits.

Preaching Monkeys.

The author of "The History of Brazil" tells of a species of monkey called "preachers." Every morning and evening these monkeys assemble in the woods. One takes a higher position than the rest and makes a signal with his fore paw. At this signal the others sit around him and listen. When they are all seated he begins to utter a series of sounds. When he stops these cries he makes another signal with his paw, and the others cry out until he makes a third signal, upon which they become silent again. This author, Mr. Maregrove, asserts that he was a witness to these preachings.

A Use For Him.

"That horse of yours looks terribly run down."

"Yes," replied Uncle Si Simlin.

"Why do you keep him?"

"Well, it's a kind of comfort to have him around. As long as I've got him I feel that there ain't much danger of my bein' cheated in a hoss trade."—Washington Star.

Not a Good Son.

Necessity turned sharply to invention.

"If I'm your mother," she said, "it's your duty to support me in comfort."

But invention, as we all know, usually dodges his duty.—Chicago Tribune.

Gallant.

More Noticeable.

The more rare a man's qualitys are the more he will be found fault with. Dust on a diamond is alwus more noticeable than dust on a brik.—Josh Billings.

When a Man's a Man.

Neither broad shoulders nor a bank account go far toward making a man.

He may have great muscles, yet be a coward and no man.

He may have the instinct which seeks a bank account, but this is the mere lust for accumulation, possessed also by squirrels, rats, woodchucks and pirates.

He may be handsome, yet there are few men so handsome as a well-bred horse.

He may be tall and stately but so is the giraffe.

He may fascinate his feminine kind. Some males of the lowest animal order possess the same qualification in marked degree.

He may be strongly endowed with the domestic instinct. So is the house cat.

He may not drink whiskey—but neither does a dog.

Of course, our proudest example of culture and refinement possesses the power of speech—a wonderful gift indeed. Who shall positively say that the Chimpanzee cannot talk? Ants communicate their thoughts one to another. The sentry crow warns his comrades of the farmer's approach with a shot-gun on his shoulder.

Man yells and pigs squeal. Men run on two legs and a duck waddles on his two feet. Men swim in the water, but not half so well as fish.

A man? He must be capable of sorrow and grief. He must have a soul that soars and cries when his ears hear good music. He must thrill at the telling of deeds of daring. He must love a woman and not merely admired women. And he must be willing, aye glad! to labor and sacrifice for others.

A man—a real man—is not merely a two-legged animal.

A Booming Town.

The little mining town of Cato, about ten miles west of Orviston, on the New York Central railroad, is to have a boom and building operations have commenced.

The Cato Coal company have decided to build 37 dwelling houses, and a new tipple will also be erected near the said railroad and the company will open one or more new drifts.

The Cato Coal company have in this vast tract about ten thousand acres of land underlaid with a most excellent quality of bituminous coal and it is their intention to mine it as fast as they can and in order to do so have concluded to build these houses to accommodate their workmen and families.

T. F. Kelly, of Snow Shoe, the manager of the company, said that contracts for some parts of the improvements had been let and the work would be pushed forward to completion as speedily as possible.

Willard Myer, of Lamar, the concrete expert, was at Cato Friday with a view of contracting for putting in the concrete foundations for the new buildings.

Helen Taft's Friend Elopes.

At Washington society is still busy with the romantic match of Miss Elsa Portner, a friend of Miss Helen Taft, and one of the most attractive debutantes of the season, who eloped to Baltimore and was married to Lorimer C. Graham, who, with his father, is interested in a lithographing plant.

Miss Portner's parents are said to have wished her to marry a New York millionaire, who was a suitor for her hand, and to have discouraged Mr. Graham's attentions.

When the elopement became known the bride said:

"It was a love match, and I supposed we could keep our marriage secret for a time. However, now that the cat is out of the bag, we shall go to Lakewood and visit mother."

Eleven Passengers in Aeroplane.

The possibilities of the aeroplane in rushing a body of scouts from place to place as needed in time of war was demonstrated at the Douai meet at Paris, on Saturday, when Aviator Lieutenant Breguet performed the amazing feat of carrying eleven passengers in his biplane for a distance of three miles. He flew across the Brayelle aerodrome in four minutes. The total weight of the passengers was 1,500 pounds. This was a new world's record for number of individuals carried.

CHICAGO MERCHANT MAKES STATEMENT.

After Spending Thousands of Dollars and Consulting the Most Eminent Physicians, He Was Desperate.

CHICAGO, ILLS.—Mr. J. G. Becker, of 134 Van Buren St., a well-known wholesale dry goods dealer, states as follows:

"I have had catarrh for more than thirty years. I have tried everything on earth and spent thousands of dollars for other medicines and with physicians, without getting any lasting relief, and can say to you that I have found Peruna the only remedy that has cured me permanently.

"Peruna has also cured my wife of catarrh. She always keeps it in the house for an attack of cold, which it invariably cures in a very short time."

Rivals Helen Kel'er.

Although only eighteen months in the institution, Katherine May Frick, the 10-year-old blind, deaf and dumb ward of the state, who is a pupil at the Pennsylvania Institute, at Philadelphia, for the Deaf and Dumb, bids fair to equal, if not to eclipse, the wonderful genius of Helen Keller, the similarly afflicted woman, who has startled the world with her remarkable mentality.

Under the careful direction of her teacher, Miss Julia A. Foley, herself a graduate of the institution, the little girl, who was absolutely illiterate and uneducated and without the means of sight whereby she could learn in the ordinary manner of those who come to the institution, has mastered the touch system of communicating with people.

She has also learned to operate a typewriter accurately and can easily detect a mistake when she makes it. She has been taught to sew and has sent the products of her work, mainly dolls' clothes and small aprons, to her little sisters in Harrisburg.

During a visit to Philadelphia of the legislative appropriation committee, she displayed her skill to the committee that visited the institution in a way to startle them.

By feeling the face of A. R. Montgomery, vice president of the institution, whom she could not see coming into the room, she recognized him at once and spelled his name to Dr. A. L. E. Crouter, superintendent of the institution.

Representative Whitman, chairman of the committee, was so impressed with her work that he took copies of her typewriting to Harrisburg.

Katherine is the only ward of any government in the world and receives the benefit of an annual appropriation of $1000, all of which is spent on her education. Her father is a small shop keeper in Harrisburg, and was first attracted by the possibilities in the child through her recognizing the sender of a gift by her keen sense of smell.

Day of Accidents.

Wednesday of last week was a day of accidents at the Standard Steel Works, Burnham, as the following clipping from the Lewistown Sentinel will show: William Mattern, while at work in the open hearth, was caught between a furnace and a charging machine and painfully squeezed across the hips. He was taken in an ambulance to his home, near Ellen Chapel, where he has been suffering intense pain since the accident. No bones were broken. Robert Nather, who resides in Ferguson valley, met with a very serious accident. He was cought between the machine and one of the furnaces at the open hearth, was badly contused all over the body. The unfortunate man was taken to his home in the ambulance. A very peculiar accident happened on the Logan side. The large belt running the eight-inch mill broke and entangled itself among some pipe running through the mill, pieces of which struck two employes, Charles Vasey and William Sipe, and rendered them unconscious for some time. A physician was called and aside from badly lacerated scalps the men escaped without injury.

Samuel R. Nichols.

Samuel R. Nichols died at 7.50 Wednesday morning, of last week at his home at Altoona, of a complication of diseases following an attack of quinsy. He was born in Bellefonte on September 1, 1862, and had lived here for thirty-two years. While here he followed the trade of a contracting carpenter and was one of the most skillful workmen of his line in this section of the state. He was a kind and loving father and had many friends in the city. His wife and the following children survive. Charlotte M., Beatrice L., Walter E., Victor F., Bessie E., Grace E. Lester H., Cleora I., and Donald M., all at home: also by one brother, W. S., and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Altern and Miss Rachel Nichois, all of Altoona. Rev. James Riley, of Trinity Reformed church, and Rev. Warren Wilson, of the Second United Bretiren church conducted private funeral services in the house at 2.30 on Friday afternoon. Private interment was made in Oak Ridge cemetery. Altoona Tribune.

Roosevelt Praises Mother of Triplets.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt was engrossed in a mass of letters and telegrams during a lull in his strenuous program at Los Angeles, Cal., but dropped everything when informed that Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bever, proud parents of triplets, were waiting to exhibit them.

They were shown to his room. Roosevelt grasped the beaming mother's hands and said warmly:

"Mrs. Bever, I want to say to you that you represent the very highest type of citizenship, in my opinion. What fine little girls they are, indeed."

Graduation Has a Novel Ending.

The tying of a nuptial knot ending the commencement exercises of the High school a wedding will occur in the pretty little village of McEwensville, Northumberland county, next month, and is without doubt the first time in this section where a member of a graduating class can be doubly congratulated upon completing the school course and becoming a happy bride at one and the same time.

The bride-to-be is Miss Edith May McMohr, a member of the McEwensville graduating class, and who will take part in the annual commencement exercises which are to be held on Thursday evening, April 6. The prospective groom is Harry C. Reynolds, a well and favorably known McEwensville business man.

According to the arrangements the commencement exercises will be held in the St. John's Reformed church and the presentation of the diplomas to the graduates will end that part of the program. When Miss McMohr is called to the front of the stage and given the diploma, Mr. Reynolds will take his place alongside of her and Rev. A. P. DeLong, the pastor of the church, will perform the ceremony making them man and wife.

Miss McMohr is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis McMohr, and is one of the town's most popular young ladies. She is 20 years of age.

Pennsy Shortens Hours.

Admission was made on Saturday by J. W. Lee, publicity agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, that a general curtailing of expenses is being made by the railroad company in its various shops.

"There is nothing unusual in the order," said Mr. Lee, "it is only the regular spring cut. Work slackens at this season and it becomes necessary either to lay men off or to shorten hours. This time the hours are being shortened, in some cases from a fifty-four to a forty-four hour week."

Announcement also came from Mr. Lee's office that the report that the Pennsylvania Railroad considered selling its Jersey City terminal is without foundation.

Wash That Itch Away.

It is said that there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make every effort to take a trip to Europe at once? For the purpose of correcting any errors of appraisements, an appeal will be held at County Treasurer's office, Bellefonte, Pa., on Saturday, April 22nd, 1911, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 3 P. M., and those who so desire can attend.

S. S. MILES,
Mercantile Appraiser.

Here and There.

James Davis, of Bellefonte, spent Thursday night with friends in Tyrone.

Mrs. Charles Cruse and daughters, of Bellefonte, have been guests in Tyrone of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Garman.

Hon. J. C. Meyer, with Dr. E. E. Sparks president of State College, left on Monday afternoon for Harrisburg.

We enjoyed a little call made to "The Republican" office on Monday by John Haagen, one of Howard's substantial citizens.

On the 15th of April the Maccabees will hold a convention at Altoona. The Bellefonte Tent will be represented by George T. Bush.

John Waite an enterprising business men, of Lock Haven, spent Sunday in Bellefonte as the guest of his mother, on Thomas Street.

George Fisher and Grant Charles, of Boalsburg, two of the most successful agents on the road, passed through Bellefonte on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy have returned to Bellefonte from their wedding trip and are, for the present, making their home with the bride's mother.

Dr. W. J. Kurtz, of Howard, spent a short time in Bellefonte on Sunday, greeting friends and also looking up his automobile, which was in one of the local garages.

We will have to let "Teddy" Roosevelt know that there is such a man in Bellefonte as Harry Johnston. There is no race suicide in his family, all right. He recently became the father of a little daughter, which makes ten children.

Elias Snyder, for many years a prominent farmer in Nittany valley, more recently a resident of Lock Haven, died last week. He was born March 9, 1834, and had been a faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal church for many years.

Miss Stella Cooney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matin Cooney, left Bellefonte on Saturday for Atlantic City where she has accepted a position in Galen Hall. She is a very fine young lady, and will be greatly missed by her Bellefonte friends.

Frank Koch, son of Amos Koch, proprietor of the hotel at Boalsburg, passed through Bellefonte on Monday enroute to Fort Cook, Neb. Until a recent furlough he had not been home for fourteen years. He is Quarter-master Sergeant, and one of Uncle Sam's best soldiers.

Edward Latham, of Bellefonte, is wearing a new 30-horse power smile. Cause—a 1911 model girl arrived at his home on Saturday evening. Mother and child are doing nicely. Eddie is just as much tickled as when he received the applause of men when he sang at the Scenic.

Fish Commissioner W. E. Meehan has made an estimate that at least 15,000,000 trout fry would be the output of the State hatcheries this year, an increase of 2,000,000 over the output of 1910. The number of applications for fry is considerably in excess of the number filed last season.

On Thursday Col. and Mrs. J. L. Spangler left Bellefonte for Atlantic City where they will spend several weeks. The Colonel has not been in the best of health for the last few months, and it was thought the change would be beneficial. It is to be hoped he may return greatly invigorated.

David McNeal, who is working at Northwood, received word from Bellefonte on Thursday that his little daughter was ill. He at once left for home where he found the child very sick. Sometime ago Mr. McNeal left Bellefonte in search of work which accounts for him being away at this time.

On Thursday Harry Weindorff, of Rochester, N. Y., passed through Bellefonte. When Andrews was hanged in Bellefonte for the murder of Clara Price. Harry was on the staff of the Lock Haven Express, and he witnessed the execution. He is a good fellow and will be remembered by a number of our people. He is now agent for the Rochester Brewing Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Irvin, who had been making Bellefonte their home for a good many years, have decided to go to Cherry Tree, where Mr. Irvin has secured a nice position as secretary and treasurer of the Cherry Tree Iron Co. They are very pleasant young people and their many friends here are loath to see them leave the town.

Last week the Clearfield Raftsman's Journal printed a two column cut of Rev. Morris Swartz who was changed from that place to the First church in York by the recent Methodist conference. He had been in Clearfield for five years, and while there did excellent work. He was born and raised in Bellefonte and his friends will be glad to know that his work is being appreciated.

The first quarterly communion service of the conference will be held in the Bellefonte United Evangelical church on Sunday evening, next, at 7.30 o'clock. Rev. H. A. Benfer, the new presiding elder of Centre District, will be present and preach the Word. Mr. Benfer is one of the strongest preachers in the Central Pennsylvania Conference and will be sure to please the large audience which will no doubt be present to hear him. Quarterly conference will be held at the parsonage on Friday evening, next, at 7.45 o'clock.

Rev. Father McArdle, of the Bellefonte St. John's Catholic church, was among those who attended the funeral of the late Rev. Nicholas J. O'Reilly, which was held in Altoona on Monday. Father McArdle knew the deceased quite well.

Harry Gordon, who resided near the country home of R. G H. Hayes, along the state road, between Bellefonte and Milesburg died today (Thursday) from tuberculosis. He was a son of Samuel Gordon, who is quite well known in Bellefonte.

Robert Gainfort, of Pittsburg, arrived in Bellefonte on Tuesday morning, and became the guest of his brother, W. R. Gainfort, on Curtin Street. Mr. Gainfort just returned from the sunny south and was much surprised to find the ground in Bellefonte covered with snow.

Dr. Ezra Yocum, the newly assigned minister to the Bellefonte Methodist church, will fill the pulpit next Sabbath, both morning and evening. The public is cordially invited. Dr. Yocum came from Lewistown where he had been preaching for eight years. This is a good record.

Last week we made mention that Miss Sadie Freeman, daughter of George Freeman, porter at the Bush House, had died at Jersey Shore. The young lady had her life insured, and this week her father received a check of $139.55. The greater part of this money, however, will go toward defraying the funeral expenses.

Landlord W. L. Daggett, of the Bush House, Bellefonte, has announced a reduction in the rates from $2.50 to $2.00 a day. Rooms with bath $3.00 and $2.50 per day. He has always kept a first class house, and the reduction in the rates will insure a larger patronage, as it will be more in accordance with the size of the pocket book of the traveling public.

Curtin Askey who had been working at Dobbin, W. Va., was a visitor at this office on Saturday and advanced his subscription. While in Bellefonte he incidentally met his nephew, Rudolph Askey, of Donora, Pa., who is in the livery business there. They had not met for a couple of years and naturally the greeting was very pleasant. Both gentlemen were formerly of Pine Glenn, Centre County. They are both pleasant gentlemen and are always welcome guests in Bellefonte.

On Friday evening an interesting entertainment will take place in the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. First there will be a basket ball game between two young lady teams of the town. This, alone, will be worth the price of admission, 10 cents. This will be followed by a basket ball game between the teams of the Bellefonte and Lock Haven Y. M. C. A. The next on the program will be a top spinning contest which will be both interesting and novel. You will make no mistake in patronizing the entertainment.

Dr. M. A. Kirk, of Bellefonte, is going into the chicken business on the wholesale plan. Recently he received two incubators and a brooder. In one of the incubators he placed 352 eggs and in the other he put 125 eggs. When he fills these incubators up twenty or thirty times this summer he will have enough chickens to cover all Spring township. The Doctor is taking a great interest in his chicken farm and it won't be long until he will be taking us out and showing us some thoroughbreds.

Green, the druggist, who by the way is one of the most progressive business men in Central Pennsylvania, is out with an unique advertisement in another column of "The Republican." With every cash purchase on Saturday, next, amounting to 25 cents, and upward, he will give away, free, a fine aluminum cup. In the advertisement will be found a coupon, which you are asked to cut out and present at Green's drug store. The first to present or mail their coupons will be sure to receive the drinking cups. If sold at retail the cups would be 25 cents each.

R. A. Laird, formerly of Bellefonte, but now of Minneapolis, Minn., was a pleasant caller at this office on Monday morning. He is here spending a few days with his nephews, John and Edward Gross. Mr. Laird is a most excellent gentleman, and is one of the men who come to Bellefonte in 1873 and assisted in the building of what was then known as the Bellefonte Car Works, which proved a failure because of the great panic that swept over the country at that time. After leaving Bellefonte he went to Tyrone where he worked for awhile and finally drifted to Minneapolis where he and his sons are getting along nicely. Although it a great many years since he had been a resident of Bellefonte, time has dealt very gently with him, as he does not look very much older than when he left here. His main reason for his being east at this time is he was called to attend the funeral of his sister at Mifflin, an account of which can be seen in another column.

Bellefonte visitors yesterday included W. O. Dougherty, of Lemont.

Dr. L. E. Kidder, of Boalsburg, greeted friends in town yesterday.

William Swarmer formerly employed at the Nittany furnace, but now employed at a large furnance at Birdsboro, is greeting his friends in Bellefonte this week. His family has been here a week or more renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Swarmer is a most excellent gentleman and his friends here are always glad to see him.

The Appropriations Committee of the Pennsylvania Legislature, accompanied by Speaker John F. Cox, are visiting State College today. The committee will come to Bellefonte tomorrow afternoon and will visit the Bellefonte hospital and also the fish hatchery. The members of the committee will be informally entertained at the several clubs during their stay in Bellefonte.

Capt. H. S. Taylor, of Bellefonte, has shaped his business affairs so that when "Uncle Sam" calls for him to forsake everything and go to the Mexican front he'll be ready. The Captain would just like to get into a scrap with some one, he doesn't care exactly whether he is a Mexican or a Jap. He is a good, faithful soldier and would do his part on the field of battle towards bringing those fellows to time.

W. T. Kelley, the progressive and faithful freight agent in Bellefonte for the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., left Wednesday afternoon for Clearfield, where he attended a lecture on the handling of high explosives. He is an observing young man who is bound to profit by what he heard. He always desires to know what to do at the right time. To handle explosives successfully requires considerable skill and ingenuity.

Last week Harris Sourbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sourbeck, left Bellefonte for Philadelphia where he entered the Orthopoedic hospital for treatment. There was an impression he had gotten worse which is not the case. He has been gradually improving, and it was with the thought of still bettering his condition that he went to the city. He is now taking the electrical and massage treatment. Before leaving he was able to walk around on crutches. It is to be hoped he may regain the use of his legs.

During this winter the ladies of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. have been serving an oyster supper every Tuesday evening to the members of the Men's Bible Class. They charged 10 cents but it was worth 25 cents. Quite a large number of young men in Bellefonte took advantage of the opportunity of getting a square meal. As the oyster season is about over and with the approach of warm weather, the ladies have closed the kitchen until the cold weather comes again. The ladies who have been faithful to this part of the work are to be highly commended. They have held together a band of young men who have made themselves more familiar with the Bible and with the work of the Association. The Bible class will be continued during the month of April.

LIFE INSURANCE
is Practical Prudence;

It is money put out at interest; it is an investment for wife and children; it is a border of sunlight along the edge of the cloud of bereavement; it is the flower of love surviving the frost of death; it is a man's freedom of will in tune with God's sovereignty. All this and more--but remember that good intentions never yet accomplished results--it takes action.
